PURPOSE:

Participating ISD licensed behavioral health clinicians face challenges engaging colleagues and student families in their patients' mental health care in the school setting. School-based BH clinicians must navigate diverse family systems while creating change in established school processes to center a student's health. This one-and-a-half-hour training is designed to allow providers an opportunity to listen and learn, participate in a case-based discussion, ask questions, and receive feedback from presenters.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Identify strategies to address personal and systemic barriers to family engagement
- Develop skills to foster leadership among colleagues and team members for making connections to families
- Practice relational approaches to family engagement
